JUDGMENT (NO 6) OF JUDGE M S KING
(Application to discharge orders)

[1] Yesterday, I received detailed submissions concerning an application for discharge of the existing freezing and ancillary orders. The orders are due to expire at 5 pm today.

[2] After considering the voluminous affidavits and exhibits, and the extensive submissions made at the hearing by counsel on the application, I determine that the application to discharge the freezing order of the Court does not succeed.

[3] The freezing and ancillary orders, which were granted by the Court on 6 November 2023,¹ and have been varied on 5 December 2023,² and reviewed and extended by the Court on three other occasions,³ will be extended for a further four months. They will expire at 5 pm on 16 September 2024 unless further order of the Court is made. The interim non-publication order over the identity of the parties continues.

[4] The matter will be called in Court via AVL at a time and date to be set by the registry, on or before 9 September 2024.

[5] Leave is reserved for the respondent to apply at short notice to vary or discharge the orders.

[6] My reasons for judgment will be issued as soon as possible within the week.

[7] Costs are reserved.
